

Saint Mary Magdalen Church

Building a family of faith in Jesus Christ through Catholic Worship, Formation & Charity.

25 MAY 2025

SIXTH SUNDAY OF EASTER

Dear Friends in Christ,

As I mentioned at Mass a few weeks ago, our parish next week will welcome a transitional deacon, Rev. Mr. Jude Opara, who has completed his theological studies at Saint Charles Borromeo Seminary and is in his final stage of formation in preparation for ordination to the priesthood. A native of Nigeria, Deacon Jude was ordained a Deacon on May 10th by Archbishop Pérez at the Cathedral. We look forward to his arrival and his presence among us this year!

At the same time, our parish is bidding a fond farewell to several Legionaries of Christ who have assisted with various liturgies in recent years here. Father Ben O'Loughlin, Father Markus Stehmer, Father Aaron Loch, and Father Reuben Nuxoll have all received new assignments from their superiors. I am grateful to all of them for the spiritual support they have provided in various ways at SMM in the last few years. In particular, I am grateful for Father Reuben, who has been a steady presence here and assisted Monsignor Chieffo a great deal in the last year of his tenure. Father Reuben will celebrate Mass on Monday evening, June 23rd, at 6:30 pm. A reception will follow. Make plans to join together in prayer and thank Father Reuben and all the Legionaries for their service here.

Check out our bulletin and website for key updates and invitations, including:

- Monsignor Chieffo's 50th Jubilee celebration next Sunday, June 1st, at the 9:30am Mass. A reception will follow, and we will be joined by the Verdi Band and the Saint Anthony Society.
- A special Parish Envisioning Happy Hour will be held at Sterling Pig Brewery on Monday, June 2nd, from 6 to 8 pm. Come learn about our pastoral planning process while enjoying some beer and snacks!
- A special extended Pentecost Vigil Mass at 7 pm on Saturday, June 7th. Our young adult schola will provide music for this beautiful liturgy.

May the Lord grant you peace!

The Acts of the Apostles and the Gentile Question

The tenth chapter of Acts of the Apostles presents us with a world-historic moment, in which the Gospel moves beyond the boundaries of Judaism and begins to be accepted by the Gentiles, meaning those peoples who were not Jewish. Acts 10 presents us with two parallel visions side by side. In the first, an angel appears to a God-fearer named Cornelius. That term "God-fearer" was a technical one in Israel, referring to a non-Jew who nevertheless worshiped the God of Israel and supported the Jewish community. Cornelius, a Roman centurion, falls into this category, as does his whole household.

The angel tells him to send a message to a man named Simon Peter, who was in a nearby town.

Peter himself was also experiencing a strange vision in which a giant sheet was lowered from the sky containing various animals and reptiles. Peter is told by a mysterious voice to eat the animals, but he refuses: "certainly not, sir. For never have I eaten anything profane and unclean" (Acts 10:15). The voice responds, "what God has made clean, you are not to call profane" (Acts 10:16).

What is happening here? You may be familiar with the Jewish tradition of keeping kosher by avoiding certain foods and combinations of foods that render a person ritually unclean for worship. This tradition begins with Leviticus 11, and by the time of the Apostles, it had become a Byzantine system of purity laws and customs. These laws were about much more than food: they were about setting Israel apart as its own unique nation. God had chosen them to be the covenant community, to carry his name even though they were surrounded by many foreign nations with their pagan gods. These purity laws then were never really about the food, but about the preservation of a distinct national identity: the Gentiles eat all these foods, but faithful Jews maintain the tradition of the patriarchs whom God called and whose descendants he freed from slavery in Egypt. This vision helps Peter understand that in the New Covenant, such laws are abrogated. The only parts of the Mosaic law essential to Christianity are those dealing with just and right actions. Because of the death and resurrection of Christ, Jews and Gentiles have a new identity rooted in him, which we receive through faith and Baptism.

As soon as Peter's vision concludes, a knock comes at the door. It is the representatives of the pagan centurion Cornelius, asking to see a certain Simon called Peter. Perhaps you have had moments like that in your life, when God made plain as day his will for you at that moment. For Peter, the confluence of his vision and this invitation confirmed that the Holy Spirit was at work in this. When Peter finally arrives a few days later, he acknowledges how strange this is for him: "You know that it is unlawful for a Jewish man to associate with, or visit, a Gentile, but God has shown me that I should not call any person profane or unclean. And that is why I came without objection when sent for. May I ask, then, why you summoned me?" (Acts 10:28-29)

At that, Cornelius describes his own dream, and Peter responds with a kerygmatic speech. (Recall my recent column about the Kerygma: the apostolic proclamation of God's creation of humanity, our fall from grace due to sin, and the redemption won for us by Jesus, the Divine Word of God made flesh who suffered, died, and rose again from the dead.) Then, something extraordinary happens: While Peter was still speaking these things, the holy Spirit fell upon all who were listening to the word. The circumcised believers who had accompanied Peter were astounded that the gift of the holy Spirit should have been poured out on the Gentiles also, for they could hear them speaking in tongues and glorifying God.

Then Peter responded, "Can anyone withhold the water for baptizing these people, who have received the Holy Spirit even as we have?" (Acts 10:44-47)

As if to ensure Peter clarity (a good idea considering his track record), the Holy Spirit descends upon Cornelius, his household, close friends and relatives, manifesting as speaking in tongues just like the day of Pentecost! Peter, thoroughly convinced of the rightness of his decision, baptizes them all in his role as head of the apostles.

All this means that Israel is fulfilling its mission, given by God from the beginning, to be a light to the nations. As the prophet Isaiah foretold: "I will give you as a light to the nations, that my salvation will reach to the ends of the earth" (Is 49:6). Now that is coming to pass: the early Christian community, made of solely of Jewish Christians, now fulfills the promise and purpose of Israel by sharing with the Gentile nations the Gospel of Christ. The Church, indeed, is the New Israel, as the Second Vatican Council taught: "Christ instituted this new covenant, the new testament, that is to say, in His Blood, calling together a people made up of Jew and gentile, making them one, not according to the flesh but in the Spirit. This was to be the new People of God" (Dogmatic Constitution on the Church Lumen Gentium 9).

This had immediate theological and pastoral implications.

It meant that entrance into the covenant is not an ethnocultural reality, but embraced all whom God has elected (the word in Greek for the Church, ekklesia, means "called out from"). But what was the status of non-Jews in the Church? Were they equally Christians as the apostles and other (Jewish) disciples? Did they have to now follow the demands of the Old Testament laws? This caused the first great theological controversy in the Church, and it would require the brilliant mind and pastoral charity of Saint Paul to resolve. 🙌

PRE-JORDAN CLASSES

We offer parents preparing for the joyful Baptismal day of their child a Pre-Jordan class. Parents are asked to attend the class before their child is baptized as it provides them with the theology of Baptism, explains the ritual and responsibilities, and shares some of the practical information regarding the Baptismal process in our parish. Godparents are also welcome and encouraged to attend.

Classes are offered on the first Sunday of each month after the 11:30 AM Mass in the Gathering Room. Although advance registration is not required, it helps us for our planning purposes. Contact Stephanie at stephaniepdavey@gmail.com
