

Saint Mary Magdalen Church

Building a family of faith in Jesus Christ through Catholic Worship, Formation & Charity.

3 MAY 2026

FIFTH SUNDAY OF EASTER

Dear Friends in Christ,

We are blessed to have our parish adoration chapel. I am grateful to all those who take hours of adoration each week in service to our community so that others can stop in and pray. In the summer months, as people go away, it is hard to cover all the hours with the minimum two adorers the Church requires. Therefore, after consultation with the Pastoral Council, beginning Memorial Day, exposition of the Blessed Sacrament will be available Tuesday at 9 AM to Thursday at 2 PM. The chapel will remain unlocked at the usual hours for those who wish to pray before the Blessed Sacrament present in the tabernacle. Thanks for your understanding!

As the month of May begins, we prepare for our PREP and School May Processions in the coming weeks. This beautiful tradition of honoring Mary, Mother of God and Mother of the Church, during the month of May is a treasured part of every Catholic parish. I'm sure those of us who grew up Catholic still have memories of wearing our Communion suits, Confirmation and graduation gowns, and asking the intercession of our Blessed Mother. But how can we think about this veneration of Mary in light of her place in Christ's mission of redemption?

I know a priest who would begin the Creed by asking the congregation, "Do you dare stand and profess your faith with me?" We all know that when the homily concludes at Sunday Mass, everyone stands up to say the Creed together. The posture of standing is more than about waking oneself up after a somnolescent homily! Rather, it is standing to acknowledge that in this faith we stand firm—that belief in the Triune God—Father, Son, and Holy Spirit—is the true solid rock upon which we can build our lives.

There is one part of the Creed in which we do something else—we bow, or on Christmas and the Feast of the Annunciation, we genuflect: "And by the Holy Spirit, was incarnate of the Virgin Mary, and became man."

We do this to acknowledge the moment that God stepped definitively into human history in the Word made flesh which dwelt among us. All time and all the tangled events of history find their resolution and significance in the light of Jesus' descent among us, His people. This is true in a very literal sense, as our calendars orient time with Christ as the central point of history—everything that happened before is one era, and everything since is another.

The Creeds speak of the incarnation as a Trinitarian act. God sends the Son into the world in the fullness of time, and He is "conceived by the Holy Spirit."

This recognition of Jesus' singularly miraculous birth is not meant in any way to denigrate the beauty of marriage or the natural means of procreating children in the world. Indeed, this is a part of God's plan for humanity, and is to be seen as good and holy. Rather, this teaching is founded on a deeper reality: that Jesus is God's son first and foremost, from all eternity. For this reason, His conception in time takes place through the action of the Holy Spirit. The Son's incarnation is extended into our time in and through the sacraments; therefore, we can catch a glimpse of what it means for His human conception to be a Spirit-initiated event. In other words, human ingenuity and wisdom had nothing to do with it, in the same way that my own virtue or ability has nothing to do with the transformation of the bread and wine into Christ's own body and blood.

Jesus is the Word made flesh. What is so remarkable about this—what makes us bow down in awe—is that despite Jesus' Divine origin, humanity is made a willing cooperator in His work of redemption from the very beginning. God does not force Himself upon His creatures, even to save us from sin, suffering, and death. Rather, as always, He treats us as free creatures, places Himself before us, and demands a response. In Mary, the ever-Virgin Mother of God, this assent to God's plan was given on behalf of us all. The appearance of the angel Gabriel announces to her before any other human creature the plan of salvation which God was carrying out. The angel waits for Mary's fiat, her yes to God's plan, because love always waits for the response of the beloved. And so, she says yes, "let it be done to me according to your word." From that moment on, we can speak of the Son of God incarnate, the Son who exists from all eternity yet who now has begun to exist in time. Now He also has a human origin story, as the entire history of Israel presents to us—with all the checkered history we find in the Old Testament! Now He even has a human father—not, of course, in the biological or natural sense, but Joseph, the legal father of Jesus, who raises him as his own, really does carry out an essential part of God's plan as he protects Jesus and His Mother in those treacherous early months and years and leads them in the quiet, unassuming home of Nazareth.

How much is contained, then, in these little words "conceived by the Holy Spirit and born of the Virgin Mary." Because of them, our own human dignity has been restored, and we can once again be heirs of Divine life through baptism. I pray that all of us will meditate on this dogma of the Church for ourselves and then share it with others, especially those who doubt God's love for them or His power to transform human affairs.

May the Lord grant you peace!

—Father Eric Banecker
